

Dear Parents,

GREETINGS

The week went by for us very speedily as we looked forward to the long weekend with the public holidays thereafter to celebrate the end of the fast for 2017. We continued with all school activities as teachers worked on assessments, exam questions and end of term reports. Early Years pupils were all over the school practicing the 3 R's ...Reduce, Re-use and Recycle. They picked up litter, planted seedlings to re-new the environment, made papier-mâché objects and more art and craft objects from newspapers, empty bottles and tins, bottle caps and all sorts of "trash". Well done to our dynamic and creative Early Years team.

EID CELEBRATION

We celebrate with pupils and families of Oakland International School as we celebrate the Id El Fitr festival. The Federal Government of Nigeria has declared Monday 26th and Tuesday 27th as public holidays. School will be closed on those days to re-open on Wednesday 28th June at 7.30am. We will be rounding up lessons for the term, starting our revision classes and preparing for the final exams of the session. It is therefore extremely important for all pupils to return to school on the expected date as teaching and learning continue. Pupils who miss extra days of school may be disadvantaged. Happy Id El Fitr.

BAKER BOOKS

We were very excited when our Baker Books arrived at school in several cartons. Immediately, Mr Emmanuel Amoo the librarian got to sorting them out and they were given to the pupils on Friday 23rd June. The school will always be a part of this unique opportunity and we ask that parents respond to the catalogue and order forms whenever they are sent home. It is an opportunity for your child to order and own new books that have been carefully selected and grouped into age appropriate bands to enrich their home libraries further.
